Play by the Rules Worksheet 9-1: Name that Violation

Deborah Anne, Julie and Sarah are members of a bicycle club. On Sunday afternoon the girls decide to ride from their neighborhood to visit their friend Riley in a neighboring community. All three girls have bicycle helmets, but Julie, who is 17 years old, does not want to mess up her hair so she leaves her helmet at home. Since there is no bicycle lane, the girls decide to ride on the sidewalks as much as possible. They want to ride in the opposite direction from the cars so they can wave at any cute guys who pass.

The three girls are riding along having a great time when they see their friend Matthew walking down the road. Sarah tells Matthew to hop on her bicycle with her, even though she does not have a passenger seat. Matthew tells the girls that they can get to Riley's house quicker if they get on the interstate. So they take Matthew's advice. They are on the interstate for about five minutes when they see a blue light flashing. A police car pulls them over. Officer Smith issues the girls a ticket for not riding their bicycles on the interstate and tells them to get off at the next exit. The girls are upset and Sarah is so tired she flags down a car. Much to her surprise, her friend Mark is driving and Mark agrees to hitch the bicycles to his car and pull everyone to Riley's house. When they get to Riley's house, they find a note on the door stating that Riley will be back soon. He is out driving his dad's car with some other seventh-grade classmates.
